There was once a most evil man that once stood ready to seize the world not for a just cause but for his own personal gain.
He was within minutes of declaring a national emergency which would have abolished all forms of government down to and including tribal councils and giving him an unchallengeable power under a program call "Continuation of Government."
"What are you babbling about now, old man?"
I'm just remembering a dark time in our past history that no one seems to have the slightest desire to commit to memory or even just recall here in these Latter Days – which means that we learned nothing from a previous trip to the razor's edge.

"Not another of you End-of-the World Conspiracy Manifestos, is it?"

It is a true story about how a very powerful, corrupt and greedy politician attempted to seize control of the nation by instigating a public emergency and in the mass panic; this man would utilizing an virtually unknown law from the late 1940s whose purpose was to allow the government to function in the case that them Ruskies tried a Pearl Harbor on us (sneak nuclear attack in modern terms).

In 1953, this made sense to Uncle Ike and he allowed faceless clerks from deep in the belly of a corrupt civil service to actually set up a shadow government that would immediately be activated if the capital got nuked.

It was and still is today except the law has now been so modified over the years that it can now be activated by not only a nuclear war (its intent!) but by any type of emergency from a natural disaster, civil unrest or as Bubba Bushee's people use to joke that his dog taking a dump on the Oval Office's rug was enough of an emergency to implement this operational plan.

Congressional committees would later investigate the off-the-book funding for FEMA to deploy a national series of what Congressman Hives first referred to as FEMA Camps but, could not or didn't connect the dots from the "COG" to Y2K and with his investigation of detainment camps situated at railheads across the nation.

"So what happened to Nixon?"
At first, he gave them a free hand outside the USA to run their scams, their nation building schemes and they really went to town.
He gave them a free hand in French Indo-China even though he promised the public that he would end the war.

Think about what I said. Once you have COG implemented due to some national emergency there is no way that the non-GOG government can wrestle back authority other than by appealing to the Supreme Court.

Consider, if there is no elected government at the time of the court action; there can be no appeal.
Tribal Government is an elected authority who could (in legal theory) force the Supreme Court to overrule the COG and restore civil, elected authority.
Start to see the COG People's need to not allow this?
